The Court Refused an Application for Mandamus Forbidding the Sale.

BOUGHT BY PHILADELPHIANS

Probable That Property Will Be Merged With the Traction Company.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NORFOLK, VA., May 3.-The proper ties of the Bay Shore Terminal Company, which operates trolley cars through pany, which operates trolley cars through certain streets of Norfolk, as well as a line to Ocean View, six miles away, and which have been the subject of much litigation ever since the roads commenced operations, four years ago, was sold today at public auction, on an order issued by the United States court, on complaint of Charles E. Fink, of Philadelphia.

The property was knocked down to E. B. Smith and Company, of Philadelphia, for $175,000. The price, it is thought here, was remarkably good, and much greater than it was thought that the property would sell for when the order of sale was entered. There were three bidders for the property, the others being Frank D. Zell, of Philadelphia, and W. Frederick Snyder and Sidney L. Wright, associates, also of Philadelphia. Smith and Company have in their possession pool bonds of the road to the par value of perhaps $150,000. Frank D. Zell and his associates hold receipts for these bonds, and Messrs. Wright and Snyder hold receivers' certificates of the company to the extent of $290,000.

But litigation in the affairs of the Bay Shore, it now seems, will break out afresh. Zell and Smith and Company are both claiming ownership of the pool bonds, and Zell is also claiming that he and his associates hold a legal and properly executed contract for the purchase of the road, and it may be that he will make an effort to upset the sale of the road made to-day.

It will require $100,000 to put the properties of the Bay Shore in good physical condition.

The sale of the properly, according to the court order, was fixed for 11 o'clock, but on order of Judge Pritchard, of the Circuit Court at Richmond, it was continued until 1. Mr. Zell had applied to the Circuit Court for a mandamus forbidding the sale, but that was not granted; neither were the terms of the sale altered in any way.

It is regarded as certain here that the Bay Shore will soon be merged with the Norfolk and Portsmouth Traction Company, of which R. Lancaster, Williams is president.

Petition of Messrs. Royall and Brown in Bay Shore Case Acted on Unfavorably.

The United States Circuit Court of Ap-The United States Circuit Court of Appeals rendered a decision yesterday morning through Judge Gon denying the mandamus applied for by Messrs. William L. Royall and Reynolds D. Brown, counsel for the petitioners in the Bay Shore Railway case.

As the road was advertised to be sold in Norfolk yesterday at 11 o'clock it was necessary that the matter be passed upon immediately, and the judges were required to work quite late the night before looking into the authorities cited by the respective counsel. Perhaps there was never a case in the courts of this country more stubbornly contested than this one.

After Very Successful Session.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHINCOTEAGUE, VA.; May 3.—The Chincoteague High School will hold its closing exercises to morrow, which promises to be one of the most interesting held here for many years. The school, under the supervision of Prof. J. P. Snead, with an able and efficient corps of assistants, residents of the island, has made phenomenal progress this session, and it is hoped that the District School Board may be fortunate in securing his services in the future.

The Greenbackville Graded School, four miles from Chincoteague, will close tomorrow, having been in session, eight months, a longer term than ever before. By the generous denation of four haadsome gold scholarship medals by Dr. H. C. Mailory to the different departments of the school an impetus has been created such as has never been known before in the history of the place. The principal is fully cognizant of the hearty co-operation of the doctor for the past three sessions, and he voices the sentiments of the people in extending to him their unbounded gratitude and appreciation of the following were the successful contestants in the different rooms:

Mildred T. Collins, Lois E. N. Logan, Margery L. Payne, Erma Jones and Marian Kelley.

The first two pupils mentioned tied on their competitive examination, but the difficulty was overcome by a test examination in orthography, resulting in a slight victory for the former.

In appreciation of the diligent work done by Lois Logan and having, prissed the first prize cably by a fraction, she was also awarded a gold scholarship medal by the principal.

Prof. W. W. Bryan, having taught successfully for the past six years, lendered his resignation as a teacher in the pubilic schools of Virginia and will follow his usual vocation in the printing and publishing business hereafter exclusively.

Walnut Box and Tea Canister That Bishop Asbury Used to Own

That Bishop Asbury Used to Own (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) SPOTSYLVANIA. VA., May 3.—Mrs. Mary J. Jones, relict of the late Rov. J. W. F. Jones, for twenty years a member of the Virginia Methodist Conference, living near Mt. Pleasant, Spotsylvania county, has in her possession two interesting relics of the pioneer Bishop Asbury, who died at the home of her great grandfather, Mr. George Arnold, a warm friend of the great itinerant.

These relies are a walnut box and the tea canister that Bishop Asbury carried with him on his journeys from State to State.

The bishop died at the home of George Arnold in 1816, and the coffin, with his remains, was put in a walnut box and buried for a few months in the Arnold burial ground. From thence the remains were carried to Baltimore, where they were reinterred. The walnut casket that had contained Asbury's remains for years was kept as a relio in the Arnold family, but tradition says that the colored people on the place were frightened at the coffin-like shape of the so gruesome a relic, and, to allay their fears, the owner of the farm had the box converted into a receptacle to hold tallow candles and their moulders, which in the old days constituted a part of the furnishings of the home.

The tea canister is small in size, and shows the marks of age. The tea canister is small in size, and shows the marks of age.

The plant was owned by the Virginia Passenger and Power Company, whose electric light plant, within a few feet of the factory, was forced to shut down while the flames were blazing around it, but was saved by fine fireman work, alded by a favorable wind, which, however, swept the big blaze eastward to the interurban electric railway bridge across the Appomattox, igniting the big structure in many places. The bridge was saved by a force of fire-fighters with buckets of water. The cessation of work at the The cessation of work at the power house provented the running of all electric cars during the fire, which burned flercely from 2 o'clock until about Western High School sent in centries, but unfortunately they came in after the entries had closed and the programme had gone in to the printer, and, therefore, that toam will not compote. The relay team from Western, however, may compete against Marston's University School, of Bailimore, and if this is done there will be a most exciting race, as will be evident to all who know the record of the Marston team and who saw the spectacular finish made by Phelan, of Western, in the Indoor relays of the Washington schools.

Dual Relay Rave.

Dual Relay Rave.

Dual Relay Rave.

The dual relay race between Woodberry Forest and the Episcopal High School will prove a most interesting event, being the decisive one in regard to the championship of the State, and made most interesting by the fact that Woodberry has defeated the Episcopal High School in three relay races this winter on the boards.

Central High School is sending a large and formidable squad and will probably carry away, as they did last year, the banner given to the winning school by the old Episcopal High School boys now attending the University of Virginia.

Last year the Fairfax trophy, the loving cup presented to the competitor in the first class winning most points, was won by a Central man (Kent) and this year there will be a hot contest between another Central man (Kemper) and perhaps others from that school; Baker, of the Army and Navy preparatory; Hardy, of Woodberry Forest and others. This cup was last year presented by Hon. Joseph E. Willard, of Virginia, and this year it will probably be presented by some other alumnus of the Episcopal High School, and otherwise by the Athletic Association.

Condition of the Track.

The track is in much better condition than last year, and all arrangements are being made to run off the meet with the least delay and in the most approved fashlon, a thing which the judges, being the same as last year, have clearly shown themselves capable of doing.

These games have been extensively advertised, and one feature of this advertising which has made a good impression is the exhibition in several store windows of Washington and Alexandria of the trophies tastefully arranged on a frame in the shape E. H. S. These trophies make a good impression on all, and many are the youth who gaze upon them in admiration and hope that they may come to wear one of the medals upon his watch chain or to keep one of the cups upon his manule.
